WHAT THIS IS

Not a lecture. Not a hackathon. Not a sales pitch.

It's a room full of Charles County neighbors and families spending an afternoon finding out what AI can actually do — at whatever pace you need.

No coding, and no need to know a thing about AI before you walk in. Helpers sit beside you, explain each step in plain language, and stay until you're unstuck. Ask the beginner question — that's what the room is for.

WHERE YOU ARE · WHAT YOU'LL LEAVE WITH

NO AI EXPERIENCE You've heard about it, maybe tried it once ↓ YOU'LL LEAVE WITH A friendly on-ramp, a real project you built, and proof you can do this.	SOME EXPERIENCE You use it now and then, but haven't built anything ↓ YOU'LL LEAVE WITH The next step: making AI do work for you, not just answer questions.	ALREADY BUILDING You're solving real problems with AI already ↓ YOU'LL LEAVE WITH New patterns, new tools, and a bench of local builders to trade notes with.	AUTOMATION PRO You know your way around all of this ↓ YOU'LL LEAVE WITH The chance to pay it forward and get a neighbor past "I can't."

COME PREPARED

- ◆ Your laptop and charger — Windows, Mac, Linux, or Chromebook.
- ◆ An idea, or none at all. We have plenty to start from.
- ◆ A personal AI account. Free tiers usually won't last the afternoon; an entry-level paid plan (about $20, cancel anytime) is plenty. Ask and we'll help you choose.
- ◆ Curiosity. That's the only real prerequisite.

BRING YOUR OWN DEVICE — what you build stays on your device, in your own accounts; it's yours to keep. BUILD AS A FAMILY — kindergarten and up welcome. A parent or guardian must stay and supervise; the adult operates the device and AI account while the child helps imagine, design, and test. ACCESSIBLE VENUE — email us with accommodation requests. PHOTOS may be taken and shared; add a request not to appear in organizer-managed photos to the RSVP accommodations field.
